Local Department.

Bro. Earle of the Day Spring, made us a call on Saturday last.

The town was very tastefully decorated for the democratic jubilee.

Dr. E. A. Palmer of Hartford, made us a pleasant call last Wednesday.

W. H. LeSuer Esq. of Marcellus, was in town the other day greeting old friends.

For some reason or other, it became necessary on Tuesday last to order the closing of the saloons.

Several fellows got black eyes, broken noses, etc., and several more found lodgings in the cooler.

John Davis and his daughter, Mrs. Sears, of Worcester, Mass., are visiting relatives in Paw Paw and vicinity.

The Hartford Day Spring has been designated as the paper to publish the delinquent tax list of this county.

The Cleveland-Hendricks banner across Main street, caught fire last Tuesday evening and was partially burned.

The pews in the Presbyterian church will be rented on Tuesday, the 25th inst., at 2 o'clock. Don't forget the date.

Perhaps it was good taste to ring a church bell in celebration of a political victory, but we know a good many persons, democrats as well as republicans, who don't think so.

Farmers have improved the recent fine weather and many of them have their fall's work done. On Saturday last the town was filled with teams and our merchants had a good day's trade.

Hurrah for Jeff Davis were heard proceeding from the democratic torchlight procession. Very appropriate indeed.

The roosters the democrats wore on their hats, were no spring chickens. They lacked but one year of a quarter of a century.

The Free Baptist society will hold a social at the residence of Mrs. E. Darling on Tuesday evening of next week. Oysters will be served.

There were just 167 ladies, gentlemen and boys on horseback in the democratic procession, by actual count—500 less than at the republican meeting on the 3d inst.

F. W. and W. J. Sellick are in Lockport, N. Y., at the bedside of Robert, their brother, who is very ill from congestion of the brain. Little, if any, hope is entertained of his recovery.

Judging from the enthusiasm which Geo.
Boyce, Porter's greenback supervisor, displayed last Tuesday, at the democratic jubilee, he must have entered into the democratic fold. Perhaps he thinks he has always been there.

There will be services in the Waverly church Thanksgiving day, to consist of an entertainment by the Sunday school, the gathering in of offerings, and a dinner.
Tickets for dinner 10 cents; exercises to commence at 11 a. m.

Among the emblems displayed in the democratic procession was a whiskey bottle, a most appropriate symbol. A loaf of bread also ornamented the same wagon. Considering the occasion, there seemed to be altogether too much bread.

Well, the prohibitionists have celebrated their victory, and if they looked carefully through the crowd about four o'clock on Tuesday afternoon, they must have felt exceedingly gratified at the result of their labors in the cause of temperance!

A grand masquerade at the rink Wednesday evening, Nov. 19th, and a two-mile race next Friday evening between John F. Clark of Dowagiac, and Robt. H. Chapman of Paw Paw, for a purse of twenty dollars. Charlie Stevens will give a specimen of riding a single wheel.

The ladies of the First Baptist church desire to express their appreciation of the kindness of Messrs. Rowland and Mosier and Miss Mamie Rowland, who assisted in their parlor concert last week. They also wish to announce a chicken-pie supper at their church next Tuesday evening, Nov. 25.
Tables will be ready at 5:30. Price 10 cts.

While some of our democratic friends were engaged in anvil-firing last Tuesday, an iron ring they were using burst, one piece just grazing Jack Smith's leg, and, after traveling some distance, crashed through Butler's shed. Had it struck him fairly, it would have been good bye, Jack. Another piece of the ring found a lodgment in the residence of John Bathrick.

When the democratic procession halted on Main street one man from Porter, who wore a sash and acted as a mugwump, took out a bottle and had a public drink, after which he passed it around among the band.
Several of the band boys, to their credit be it said, refused to humiliate themselves by drinking with him, and one of the ladies on horseback openly expressed her disgust.

The drunkenness on our streets last Tuesday evening must have made prohibitionists rejoice that they defeated the republican party and elevated democracy to power. It was not necessary to order saloons closed at the republican mass meeting. "Comparisons are 'odorous,'" said Mrs. Partington, but we venture to compare the meetings of the two parties in this village, and challenge any disinterested person to "look on this picture and then on that," and draw their own conclusions.

Observer's Observations.

Put away those little badges.

The campaign liar is fixing up his winter quarters.

Geo. E. Breck, the lawyer, has violated the laws of nature by clipping his horse.

Dr. Hilton sports a new tile devoid of all political color, and looks happy under it.

Mr. O. Landon and wife have gone to the state of New York on a visit, intending to be gone all winter.

Jerome Warner, the good-looking butcher, denies on venison last week to his customers at 10 cents per pound.

Miles Lucas has got about a hundred traps and the mink, muskrats and skunks are being gathered in by wholesale.

Kirk W. Noyes has a new clerk who is quite a cock robin of a fellow, and waits on customers very promptly and nicely.

Corn-husking is about completed, and we have had the finest weather we have had for years in which to gather it. The crop is good.

A minister downed us the other day because we had not been writing more of late, and advised us to proceed. Grangers take notice.

Dr. Maynard has a new horse that is a good one, and when he starts him out he will get there before anything happens, you can safely bet.

Dr. Andrews was at Chicago all last week.
We think he went away from home because the political atmosphere was a little too strong for him.

The Catholic people are putting down a new gravel walk in front of their church, under the management of Jimmy Doyle, the Ben Butler Irishman.

Mrs. John Russell of Unionville, this state, our sister-in-law, is here with her little girl, Maude, on a visit, and will stay for a few weeks while her better-half is among the tall hemlocks hunting deer.

Chester A., who would have been president-elect had we had our way, has appointed the 27th of this month for turkey and rooster day. Gov. Bagole, who is not governor-elect because we did have our way, has made his proclamation.

Wilson Lee, ex-landlord of the Union house, has just returned with his wife from a six months' visit on the golden shores of California. The atmosphere was too strong for Wilson and he had to return for his own health, as he was sick most of the time while there.

Billy Buchanan, of whom we spoke as running for prosecuting attorney on the democrat ticket up in Tuscola county, got to the front in very good time.

John Emery, while carrying some wood up the steps the other day, fell and broke his left shoulder. Men should always let their wives do such heavy work and thus avoid distressing accidents.

Maude S. got to the front the other day at Lexington, Ky., in 2:09½, a record that Jay-Eye-See will never disturb. This wipes out all former records, and, being made so late in the season, is considered by horsemen to be equivalent to 2:08.

David Woodman, a 32 year old boy, had one of his toes amputated the other day just because it got in a notion of trying to peek under at his heel. Dr. Andrews did the business for him, and the boy is getting along as well as could be expected under the circumstances.

In reply to "Timothy Tar," the one 33½ per cent gentleman, who charges us with using the agricultural society's straw, track, etc., on which to train our horse, we would say, they were not worth a straw, and the track and stalls we procured of the Paw Paw horse association which owned them and which only had a right to let them. He says we chew tobacco and squirt the juice on ladies' dresses as they pass along. That is too brilliant and brainy altogether, as we never took a chew of tobacco in our life.
He then says we should take hold and help raise the institution. Almighty power only can raise the dead, we can't. Then he offers to assist us to the presidency of the concern.
Don't want it, sir. If we did, would prefer to be backed up by those who don't wear No. 12 boots and No. 5 hats, and who have a little respect for George Washington and his little hatchet.

We wrote up some items not long since for the local columns of this paper, in one of which we said Lincoln Threadgould of the Lee district, had a new bean thresher. The digestor of our writings got it a new baby.
Now, there is a big difference between a baby and a bean thresher. One is made to thresh beans, the other to be threshed, and eat beans. One is born with two or three hundred teeth, the other toothless. One is a hummer, the other a squaller. They get up steam by the use of water to run one, for the other they use milk. One is cared for and fed by men, the other by women. One is drawn around on trucks, the other in a baby carriage. One keeps up a big noise all day, the other all night. One is taken to church sometimes, the other very seldom. One goes about the country at work, the other stays at home and makes work. These are a few of the differences between a baby and a bean thresher. Now, Lincoln is an exemplary young man, knows nothing of the joys of matrimony, never enjoyed the pleasure of a wife's cold feet against his spinal column, always led a religious life, and could be in no wise responsible for a baby, while on the other hand he could father a dozen bean threshers and the world would never question his motives. We make this apology to enable the editor to head off a $10,000 libel suit with which he was threatened. He is entitled to great credit, however, for getting even a small baby out of our writings, as we are often stuck on them ourselves. We feel that this is due to Lincoln, and it comes as free as everlasting grain.

The Democratic Jubilee.

Great preparations were made for the celebration of the first democratic national victory that has been won in twenty-eight years. A large crowd was anticipated, but such anticipations were not realized. Not more than one-fourth as many people were present as at the republican mass meeting, and—we regret to say it, but it is true, nevertheless—there were more than four times as many men intoxicated as there were at the republican meeting. The procession, while not large, presented a fine appearance, not the least attractive feature being the wagons procured from the gipsy camp near this village. The load of girls in white also looked well. Speeches were made at the rink in the afternoon by Hon. C. S. May and O. W. Powers of Kalamazoo, which we did not, and did not care to hear, as the campaign is over, and the outcome did not incline us to listen to congratulatory addresses.

The most enthusiasm was displayed when Rowland of the NORTHERNER fulfilled the terms of the wager he had made with Jordan of the Overier. This took place at four o'clock p. m., the ride being through the center of Main street, from the M. E. church to the rink. One band preceded the high contracting parties and another followed them, while the crowd yelled themselves hoarse over the spectacle. Jordan was enveloped in a banner labeled "Cleveland and Hend'ryx" and Rowland wore a yard and a half of sash around his hat. At the close the crowd gave each of the parties three rousing cheers. It is safe to say that, although the wager was carried out faithfully, neither of the men who participated in it, will ever make such a foolish bet again.

The day was closed with a brilliant illumination in the evening, accompanied by a
